“SCULPTING YOUR BODY WITH LIPO-DISSOLVE”

Q: What exactly is LipoDissolve body sculpting?

A: It is the application of fat dissolving medications to target areas of the body to spot reduce inches off those areas of concern. Think of it as a non-surgical tummy tuck or non surgical liposuction.

Q: On what parts of the body is it most effective?

A: The most common areas targeted are the abdomen, that "pooch" in front, the flanks or "love handles," back fat, bra lines, inner thigh, outer thigh or "saddlebag" area, and even the fat under the chin and neck.

Q: Is it safe?

A: Very safe. The medication, PhoshatidylCholine is a naturally occurring substance that breaks down fat cells.

Q: Is there any down time?

A: The down time is minimal to none. You can do a treatment at lunchtime then go about your business during the day.

Q: Can you lose weight when you have LipoDissolve?

A: No. LipoDissolve is not a weight loss procedure. It is only for reducing size and inches in specific areas of the body. The weight loss is minimal if any. The best way to increase the effectiveness of a minimally invasive procedure like LipoDissolve body sculpting or the more invasive procedure of liposuction is to combine a good healthy diet with a common sense exercise program. This would give you the best result for your money. Seek a physician who can combine a holistic approach to you and who can make specific recommendations for a wellness approach to your procedure for more positive results.

Q: Is it better to have LipoDissolve than Liposuction?

A: It depends on the area of concern and the patient's overall health and desires. That can only be determined in consultation with an experienced aesthetic physician trained in Mesotherapy and LipoDissolve and a certified plastic surgeon. Liposuction will have a recovery down time, LipoDissolve body sculpting does not.

Q: What about Mesotherapy?

A: Mesotherapy is a procedure that uses microinjections of medications under the skin to help reduce the appearance of cellulite. The medications are safe and effective and allows for an improved smoother appearance to skin.
